

AGED RESIDENT ANSWERS CALL

Jesse S. Crow, probably the oldest man in Utah, died at the Utah county infirmary Saturday afternoon after a long illness.

Mr. Crow, said to have been 105 years old, was born in Lexington, Kentucky, Oct. 4, 1824, and came to Utah during the year of 1863. He settled in Rush valley where he lived for a number of years and later moved to Lehi, where he continued the pursuit of farming.

On November 15, 1921, Mr. Crow was admitted to the county infirmary where he was well liked by all. He enjoyed good health until four weeks ago, when he took ill, and grew steadily worse. Funeral services will be announced later.
